Not Investment Advice

This segment is sponsored by: Mr. Donut, @mrdonuthead

This is not investment advice. Do your own research. We are not responsible for your actions.

Tips to Newbie Investors
(As learned from the True Millionaires Series)

1. Invest what you're WILLING TO LOSE.
2. Invest for the LONG TERM.
3. Invest into QUALITY businesses at REASONABLE PRICES.
4. Invest REGULARLY.
5. Invest using DIVERSIFICATION.
6. Invest EARLY.

1. Invest what you're WILLING TO LOSE.

If you're scared to lose big, then start small. Risk only the money that you are willing to lose. Don't go big immediately just because of FOMO.

But if you are on fire to invest, then invest according to what you know. If you've studied about it, and you see its potential growth, then go and invest the percentage you think best suits the knowledge that you have.

Pure Speculations And Theories

This segment is sponsored by: AxieGlobal, @axie_global

Public Mint of Alpha Passes Speculation

So that public mint of Alpha Passes from @LegendsOfVenari (upcoming P2E game) sold out in 10 minutes. 3,750 total passes x .11 ETH = 412.50 ETH x $4000/ETH = $1.65 Million USD raised to develop the game!

After combining Alpha Passes with the Axie Guilds I know, and estimating to include the Axie Guilds I don't know, I conservatively estimate that 600 Alpha Passes are owned by Axie Guilds. Or 16%. Round up to 20% to account for Axie individuals outside of guilds and you're looking at approximately 1 in every 5 Alpha Passes in @LegendsOfVenari is owned by a member of the Axie Community.

Do I sense diversification from the Axie community as they expand outside of Axie Infinity? Seems that way huh?

Pure Speculations And Theories

What if SLP and Axie prices are being artifically kept low?

Here's a thought, that as the devs get ready for land play, what if, to prevent another Ronin server congestion from spikes in players rushing to capitalize on rises in SLP and AXS prices, they keep SLP and AXS prices low to give the devs time to work on landplay, not having to be worried about fixing ronin server congestion?

I say "they" as in the powers that be. The invisible force that pervades all.

But usually anything going in and out of devs' wallets, guild founders' wallets, treasuries, and elsewhere, are tracked and recorded in the blockchain for all to see.

Usually everything works out in the end if we make smart calculated decisions and also have patience and trust the dev team where hundreds of millions of VC money were invested.

Random Advice / Opinions From Axie Community

Stand and sit up straighter

Chances are you play games on your phone. And you don't notice when you're playing, but if you're reading this, chances are you hunch when you sit.

Hunching is bad for your posture and your health because it forces pressure down on your lungs, making them work harder and also making it harder to breathe and get oxygen in general.

That's why try get in the habit of sitting up straighter, or standing straighter, and taking deep breathes to oxygenate your body and give yourself more energy.
