Established in 2021,
Loot Magazine is a digital publication by Loot Squad Guild. It is the definitive guide to the metaverse and covers the best in cryptogaming, NFTs and the crypto community.

First of all...

Welcome to Loot Magazine's very first issue!

What you are witnessing today is not just a magazine. It is a platform for the metaverse's community builders by community builders. It is an outlet for creativity, a medium for amplifying voices, and an avenue for innovation.

What started as a eureka moment has finally materialized into something that brings the community together. We hope you enjoy reading as much as we have enjoyed creating every single page. Here's to many more!

AXIE INFINITY GUILDS

The Loot Squad:
Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow

by @radioactivsushi

You can oftentimes read on Twitter that the Loot Squad isn't just a guild, it is a community of builders, one big family revolving around the game Axie Infinity.

The Loot Squad has 14,044 members as of writing, a collection of Axie Trainers, Play-to-earn Pioneers, Community Builders, Artists, Scholar Aspirants, E-Sports Players, and Content Streamers.

A collection of people having different occupations. Full time Axie trainers, university students, medical professionals, IT, Engineers, Teachers, and such. Members from various countries and ethnicities; Filipinos, Americans, Latinos, Malaysians, Indians, Pakistanis and from other corners of the world. A diverse set of people having the common purpose of being actively involved in the Play-to-earn Revolution.

The Past: How it started

The Loot Squad was founded on the 5th day of June 2021 and the floor price that time for an Axie was playing around $234. $SLP was about to pump from $0.12 and $AXS was a still a sleeping giant at $4.36. Let me tell you a story on how this all started.

Have you ever wondered why the founders chose "Loot Squad"? How did all the founders meet? How did they get into Axie Infinity? Where did all the Axies come from, and how was Loot Squad built from the ground up?

So how did all of these wonderful people meet to create the Loot Squad?

Brycent took the chance to stream on a time that hasn't been occupied yet by any influential Axie Infinity streamer, which was around 9:00PM Eastern. He had 3 chops Axies with little to no synergy. He was still working at that time and only streams after work.

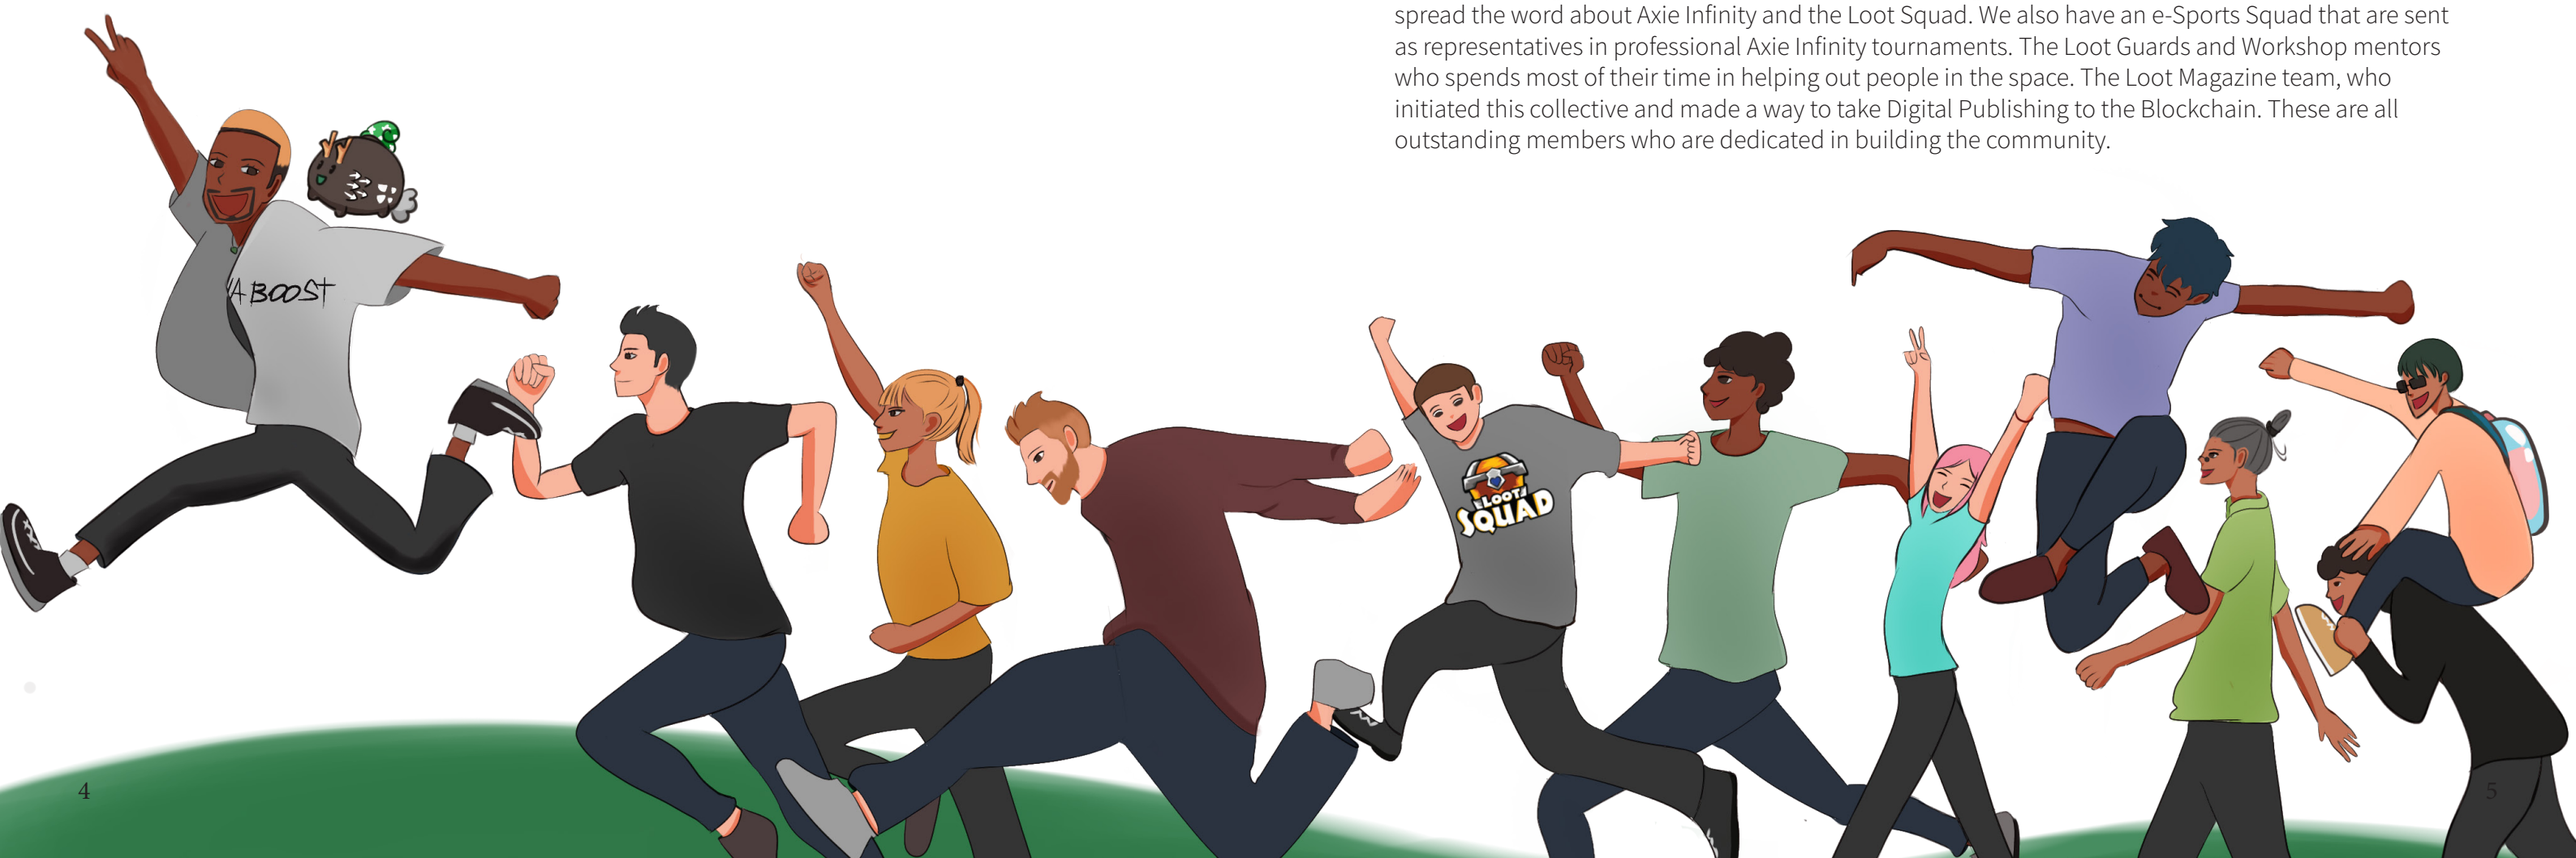

Fate brought Big Crit Brit to his stream when the viewership was only 10 at most, she was captivated by Brycent's passion for the game along with his contagious energy. She immediately told Binary Assets to join the stream, and they gifted Brycent three Axies, and the Loot Squad was born.

The name Loot Squad was thought of by Binary Assets and Flowbot44, they have a history of playing World of Warcraft and in that game, the economy and the game itself revolved around "Loot" which are the spoils you get from defeating monsters. With this, strong bonds of friendship was fostered and the squad stuck together to accomplish a common goal as one. This initiated the family-like atmosphere in the Loot Squad that enables everyone to work together in maximizing the rewards in the play-to-earn space.

The Present: Where we're at right now

As of writing we have 452 scholars and 15 scholar managers, all together in playing Axie Infinity. We've partnered with the Yield Guild Games a few months back to increase our roster. We have paused onboarding this September while we go through the legalities in institutionalizing the Loot Squad, while also securing funds from investors. Right now it is almost complete and we are slowly getting back in onboarding new scholars, adding to our rich pool of talents.

We have a Design Squad, a repertoire of artists and designers. We have a Stream Squad that streams to spread the word about Axie Infinity and the Loot Squad. We also have an e-Sports Squad that are sent as representatives in professional Axie Infinity tournaments. The Loot Guards and Workshop mentors who spends most of their time in helping out people in the space. The Loot Magazine team, who initiated this collective and made a way to take Digital Publishing to the Blockchain. These are all outstanding members who are dedicated in building the community.

Among all the current achievements of the Loot Squad, empowering the members economically would be at the top of the list. Changing lives by playing a game. It creates a ripple effect, it spreads through the entire metaverse. Scholars now managing co-scholars in the Loot Squad, former scholars now owning their own Axie teams, scholars now having their own scholarship programs. All of these are made possible by just enjoying a play-to-earn game called Axie Infinity.

The Future: Where are we heading

Possibilities are endless in the metaverse, the Loot Squad is still a startup and its achievements are already monumental. In the near future we'll be involved in other play-to-earn games in different blockchains providing more opportunities for members to earn.

Scholars becoming Scholar Managers, eventually Scholar Directors in different play-to-earn games, more scholars having their own Axie teams and programs, more departments in the Loot Squad, a backend IT team? Loot Squad Player Support? Accounting team?

When the pandemic is over and we can all move freely, we might have an annual conference centered on celebrating our organization. Exclusive airdrops, discounts, airport lounge access, merchandise, Loot Squad hardware wallet, crypto debit card, Founders' NFT, $LOOT token, who knows what else is in store for us.

All I know is we are still early in the space, there are so much things to develop and explore, you made it here at this point, hang tight because this will be one amazing ride.

From the Creative Director

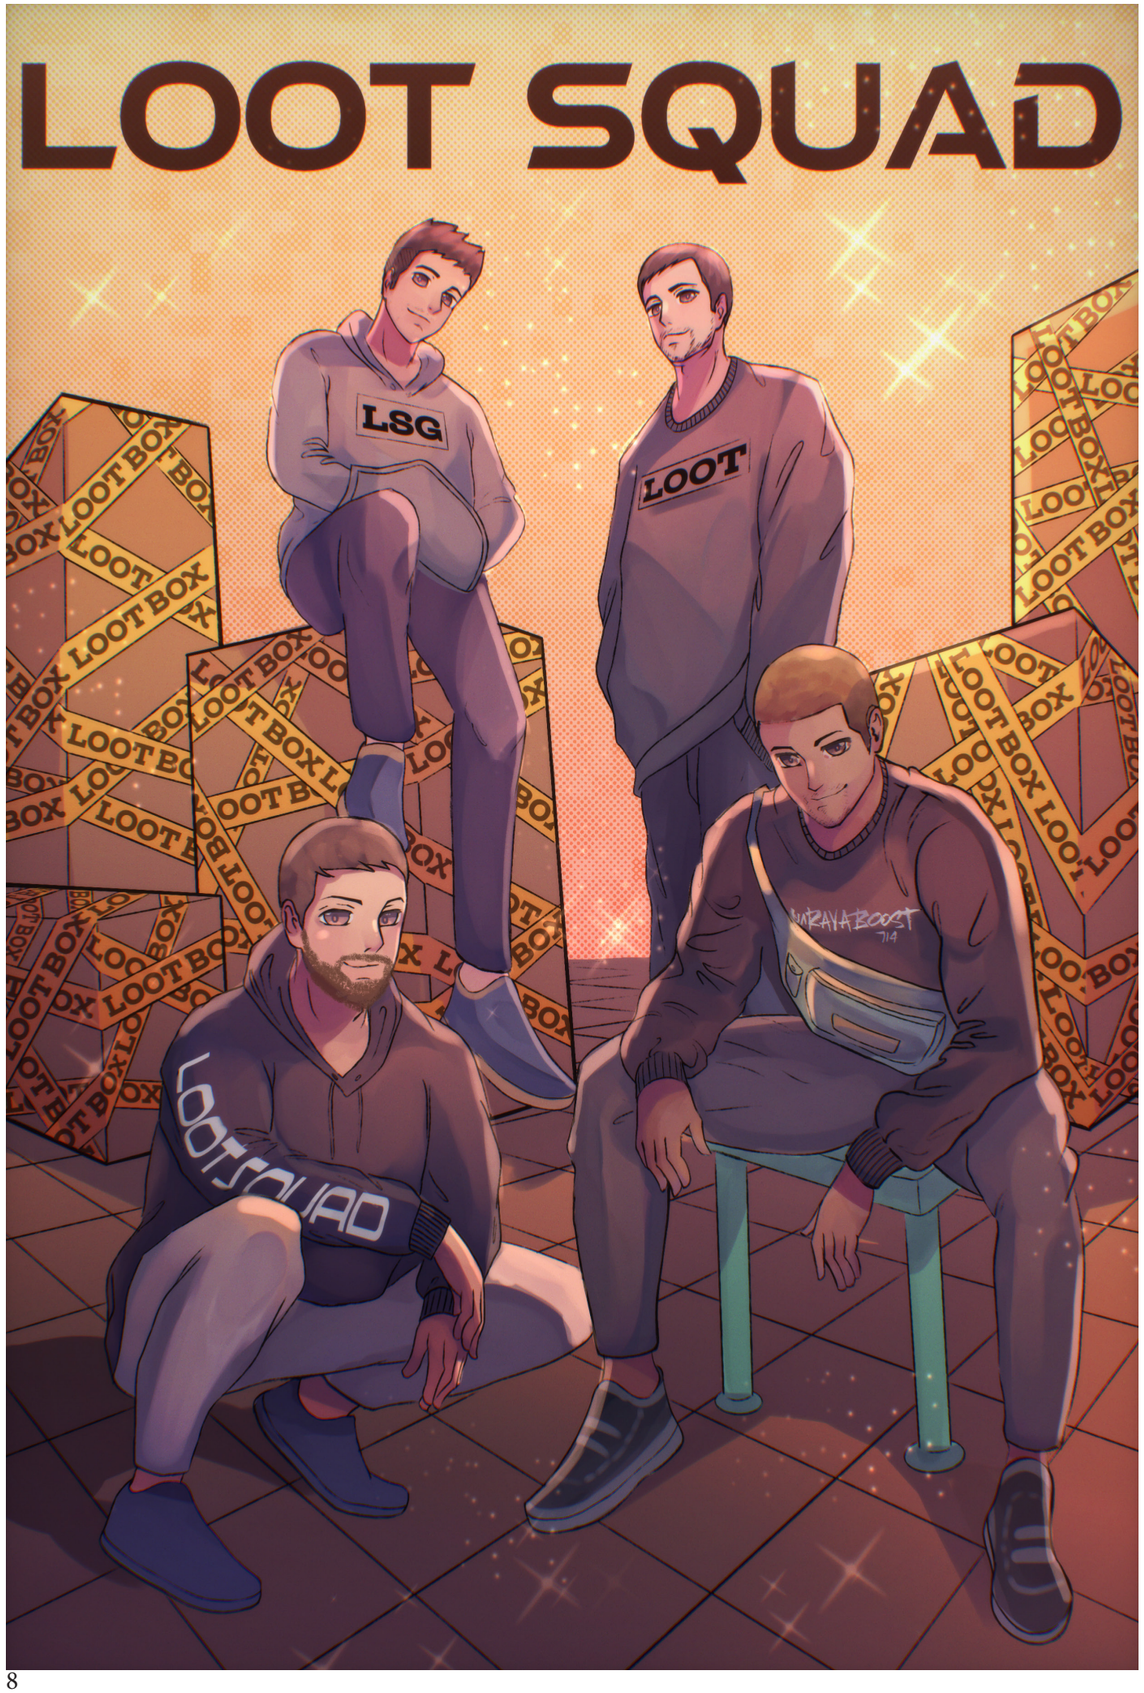

LOOT's concept suddenly came to me while I was randomly illustrating. The next morning, I shared this idea to my friend Sushi and we went on to mobilize a team of creatives! Everyone, including Bryce, were so hyped about this project. We thought, why wait for mainstream media to feature the great things the community is doing when we can create our own platform?

As an artist myself, I want LOOT to become the driving tool for change, not only for artists but also for those who just want to create something meaningful. My vision is to inspire and share the expressions of individuals across the globe. I want the unseen to be seen and the unheard be heard.

A few months ago, I was in a rut. I was a struggling artist trapped in a loophole of feeling not good enough; so, I pushed my limits to see a glimpse of my future self. I am glad I did because I was able to find myself with the company of like-minded people in Loot Squad. I truly believe that we'll dominate the world one day while still helping the community. For now, we take another step to become the impossible!

BRYCENT

What initially attracted you to crypto gaming and NFT in general?

I've always been a huge gamer since the old Call of Duty days watching pros like Nadeshot. But what attracted me to NFT gaming was the ideologies behind ownership. I had a background in CSGO where we would buy in-game skins for thousands of dollars but we didn't actually own the rights to those items. NFT gaming was intriguing because the idea of ownership was next level innovation. It sparked my interest and made me want to immerse myself in the world of Axie Infinity.

What are your thoughts on where Loot Squad sits currently, and where do you think its future lies?

I think Loot Squad is in an amazing position because everything that we have built has been based on family, togetherness, and building a culture that focuses on empowering others. I cannot speak too much about the future as we are handling a lot of business engagements at the moment but there are some pretty insane things coming. WAGMI.

What makes Loot Squad unique?

Loot Squad is different from most guilds because we have something that cannot be bought, replaced, or sold and that is our culture. We are empowering the world and it happens through positivity, innovation and bridging the gap between the traditional world and the NFT/Crypto world. Loot Squad is uniquely positioned to do this better than anyone else.

What is the biggest challenge you've faced and how did you overcome it?

The biggest challenge is always wanting to help more people. I hate the moments where I want to do more and simply can't at that time. So I do my very best to get closer to our goal of helping the most people we can. Together we can do this.

What is the best accomplishment of Loot Squad you're most proud of?

I think Loot Squad's best accomplishment is helping people become community builders and giving them the tools they need to make a living and improve their lives. I love watching our scholars/members grow into impactful people. It's been a blessing.

Do you have anything we should be keeping an eye out for?

I don't want to say too much but I love what we are looking to do with our scholars in the space of media and entertainment.

If a movie was made of your life, what genre would it be?

I am a pretty big horror movie fan. But I hate playing horror games lol.

If you had to eat one thing only going forward, what would you eat?

Balut? HAHA just kidding, I would probably say ramen. I LOVE ramen.

Who do you admire the most?

The four I most admire are Jiho, Gary Vee, Casey Neistat, and Alexis Ohanian. All impacted my life in different ways.

Grind Like Gary.
Build Like Alexis.
Cultivate Like Jiho
Document Like Casey.

What initially attracted you to crypto gaming and NFT in general?

I've been involved in crypto since 2013 but back then there wasn't much to do with most of the coins. It was mainly just speculative trading. As someone who spent too much time gaming in my youth, NFTs absolutely clicked with me. Not only did the blockchain have another utility with gaming, but owning the assets that you have earned in a game is amazing. Money spent on Fortnite assets were no longer a sunk cost.

What are your thoughts on where Loot Squad sits currently, and where do you think its future lies?

Currently Loot Squad is a scholarship program with an amazing community that acts more like a family than a guild. I'm very proud of the culture that we have. The positive attitude and love has been fostered by the examples of Bryce and our great Managers.

We have plans to be much more than a scholarship. We intend to scale much bigger, expand into other games, and provide more opportunities for community members. I don't want to spoil much but we're just getting started.

What makes Loot Squad unique?

Our culture is what makes Loot Squad special. It's not something that can be replicated overnight. It seems to be contagious throughout the community. Whether it's the workshops that our members are willingly running to help onboard new members, or deciding to create a magazine, everyone wants to make Loot Squad better every single day.

What is the biggest challenge you've faced and how did you overcome it?

Scaling is probably the most difficult part of running a scholarship. Ideally you want to provide as many opportunities as possible to people but it can become overwhelming. There are a lot of different aspects (payouts, answering DMS, breeding, creating new teams, keeping teams competitive, etc) and there's only so much time in a day.

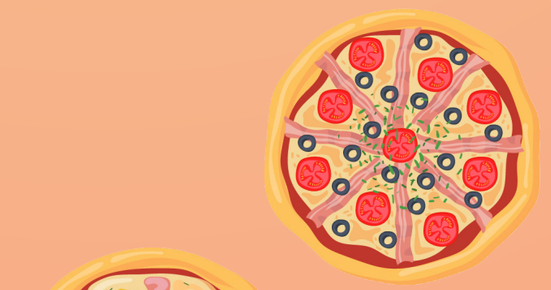

We are working on improvements to our scaling every single day (we have some new stuff in the works) but we put a couple things in place that have made a huge difference. Firstly, our scholar managers do a fantastic job! They keep everything running so smoothly while keeping the community engaging. Secondly, the Aurayabot (self claim SLP bot and more) has saved us a lot of time while also improving the user experience. Shout out to Flowbot & Cartkid for their awesome dev work!

What is the best accomplishment of Loot Squad you're most proud of?

The impact it has on each and every scholar. Everytime I look at Twitter I'm still amazed at how impactful Axie and this opportunity is for people. We're truly blessed!

Do you have anything we should be keeping an eye out for?

Yes! Look for some big updates, a lot more scholar teams, and some new opportunities over the coming months.

If a movie was made of your life, what genre would it be?

Comedy, not only are they my favorite genre but I prefer to be goofy than serious generally.

If you had to eat one thing only going forward, what would you eat?

Pizza, who doesn't love pizza? Plus there's enough variety to keep it interesting for a long time.

Who do you admire the most?

Oh man, this is a tough one! I'm going to cheat and give 3 answers. They all impacted me around the same time:

Jiho & Psycheout: Ever since I joined the Axie community back in early 2019, I've appreciated the way they have handled the community on the inside, promoted the community on the outside, and always kept their integrity. Great examples of community leaders!

Gabby: I'm forever grateful for how much Gabby has helped me over the years. He was a friend first, but now it's amazing to see how he is growing YGG and I admire his dedication to the NFT space as a whole.

Coco: I have always been amazed by his generosity. Whether it was giving streamers hundreds of Axies, or providing prizes for Axie Sushi, he has always put the community first. I've always appreciated how much thought he puts into his actions when it came to making sure the community comes first.

CARTKID

What initially attracted you to NFT in general?

BA actually first brought me to Axie in 2019 and this is what introduced me to NFTs. It first started out as just being fun, playing and talking about the game. Besides axies, my first NFT was a crypto-trunk.

What are some of the exciting things you were able to achieve in developing for Loot Squad?

I really enjoy developing things that help people. Collaborating with BA, Flowbot, and Bryce on what the bot can and should do has been great, I'm looking forward to the next things we do to help the community. We're never at a loss for enhancements to make and Flowbot and I enjoy tackling those enhancements.

What makes Loot Squad unique?

I think the 'Squad' element to Loot Squad is the key differentiator. Bryce has done an unbelievable job attracting talented and kind folks to Loot Squad. Every person I've gotten the chance to interact with has been great. I'm sure Jihoz is proud of all the incredible kindness Loot Squad has cultivated and shared with the Axie community.

What is the best accomplishment of Loot Squad you're most proud of?

To be honest, I'm super pumped for the next thing. The Next Thing (TNT) is going to change everything as we know it and allow more people to be introduced to Loot Squad and the projects that Loot Squad is involved with. As for something that has come out, I'm very proud of the self-service payouts. Flowbot and I got together to work on payouts and then worked towards self-service. It's amazing to see it being used daily.

What is the biggest challenge you've faced and how did you overcome it?

There are little things all the time that are stumbling blocks, acknowledging that it's not an enormous issue actually helps me overcome seemingly large hurdles. Very recently there was a small change that the Axie team rightfully made that made the bot stop working. The Axie community assisted in fixing the issue. Don't be afraid to ask for help.

If a movie was made of your life, what genre would it be?

I enjoy dramas quite a bit actually. Comedies are great, but I like seeing people overcome fears, etc. I think it'd be a drama.

If you had to eat one thing only going forward, what would you eat?

I would have to go with pasta. There are lots of different sauces and noodles, so it should stay interesting for a while.

Who do you admire the most?

Not to be corny, but I appreciate the role Binary Assets has had in many people's crypto journey. He enjoys celebrating the successes that others are able to have and has a knack for teaching people too.

What is your most-used emoji?

FLOWBOT44

What initially attracted you to crypto gaming and NFT in general?

The biggest attraction was owning the game assets that you play with. I was playing a little Rocket League and Fortnite then discovered NFTs and I have never looked at traditional games the same. Spending time and money on those games seemed like a waste when I could be putting my time and money into something that you can build up into something amazing in the future.

What are your thoughts on where Loot Squad sits currently, and where do you think its future lies?

I think LootSquad is a baby right now focused on one game and it's poised to grow up fast. It will be the hub for all crypto gaming sooner than we think, I can see it being the spot where people come to hang out and recruit friends before starting some epic raid or get advice before entering tournaments.

What makes Loot Squad unique?

The people. The founders are all amazing people, the managers have been fun to work with and watching what the community members grow and build amazing content has just been spectacular.

What is the biggest challenge you've faced and how did you overcome it?

Figuring out the payment system was a big challenge, We started off with a batch payout then we quickly realized how time consuming and fragile it was with the scaling issues of the Axie server. So switching over from batch payouts to self payouts with Auraya bot was huge for everyone involved. We got through it by just being flexible and willing to adjust our plan to solve the issues at hand instead of just pushing off the issues and waiting for axie server to improve.

What is the best accomplishment of Loot Squad you're most proud of?

The success we have promoting scholars to managers or even starting their own scholarship programs. It's really cool introducing people to something that can be so life changing and empowering.

Do you have anything we should be keeping an eye out for?

Auraya is just getting started. Unlimited potential to make the LS the best place to be.

If a movie was made of your life, what genre would it be?

Sci-fi & AI movies are amazing

If you had to eat one thing only going forward, what would you eat?

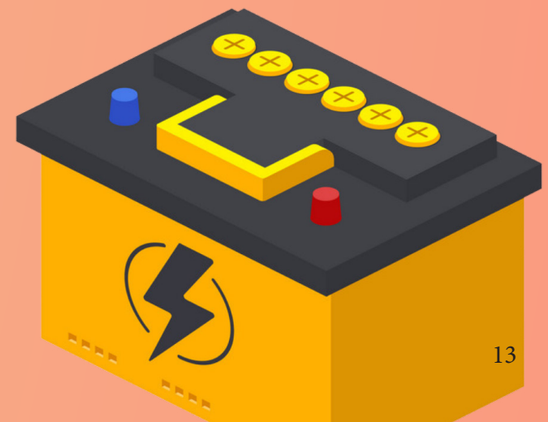

There is nothing better than a good Lithium battery

Who do you admire the most?

R2-D2,
the smartest and funniest bot ever

5 Things To Do Immediately After Learning About NFTS

1. Get a Metamask Wallet

Your NFTs can't be stored anywhere without this. Go to metamask.io and download the chrome extension or the mobile app. You then follow simple instructions to create an account and your wallet. You will receive a unique ID called the wallet address which you use to send and receive funds. Your wallet address can be shared with other people without them gaining access to your funds. There are options for security if you don't want strangers seeing your transaction history.

2. Follow Leaders In the Space

If you are unsure about where to start looking, it can be great to find someone knowledgeable to follow. That's the easiest way to passively learn more and potentially get early insights on popular NFTs before the price goes up too much. An example I personally follow is GaryVee. He's released his own collection called VeeFriends and the floor is somewhere around 9 ETH. I learned about the NFT he made and the community growing around it through his socials. From there you should be able to find other people in the space based off of who he is following and interacting with. If you don't know who to follow yet, he's a good place to start. He's created an incredible business model based around brand and content.

3. Buy Cryptocurrency

Look at the the most reputable marketplaces and the largest communities. Eth is the most common, but due to gas fees, many look at alternatives like Polygon and Solana. All of these have varying gas fees. You can buy some on a marketplace like Coinbase or Crypto.com. You then transfer the funds to your Metamask wallet and you're ready to buy.

4. Browse NFTs Auction Sites

This is the fun part. Jump in and start finding NFTs that interest you. Get an idea of what the market is doing and who the big players are. You'll see popular NFT collections like crypto punks, cryptokitties, Big Ape Yacht Club, and more selling for the price of mansions. You'll also see thousands of replicas selling for pennies. In the middle somewhere lies your first NFT waiting to be purchased. So go out and see what's in store for you.

5. Join A Community

When I first learned about NFTs, I was confused about how to get involved. It seemed like I wouldn't fit in to many and some have a steep price barrier. Turns out many communities have a lot of friendly, welcoming people that want new people in theirs. I saw a friend get involved in Axie Infinity and it became the first community I joined and became interested in. I bought some $AXS since I couldn't afford axies at the time. I love the various ways you can get involved and make investments in the space. You should join a community you're drawn to that matches your interests. It will be easier to communicate and advance further.

It's a great time to get started with NFTs. Whether you like art, gaming, or supporting your favorite creator, NFTs are sure to exist somewhere in your interests. You can quickly get started in just a day by creating a wallet, following leaders in the space, buying some crypto, and joining a community. It is only the beginning for NFTs and I am excited to see what else is in store.

Axie-ting Journey: Going to the Moon

@wileyxmaeve

There's this game that changed our lives
Such a wonderful feeling to feel the good vibes
Being part of it was totally unexpected
Who would have thought that it will make us connected?

You know what's crazy?
Having an internet community that treats you like a family
To my Loot Squad GG
I love you until eternity
I don't mind being a scholar
I'm just glad I made it this far
My heart can't wait to achieve more
To show those people that doubted this before

This game that they called scam
Has now helped thousands of fam
These people that used to be strangers
Now became our gaming partners

Meeting people from here gives no regret
In fact, what we're making are memories I won't forget
Thank you, Axie Infinity, for building our relationship

Now, get ready because we're boarding a rocket ship!

Hop in let's Crit

@TeachAxie

I
The heat is on, cold people come on.
The new meta,
think of it over like you're in a menta'.
Crazy race, who is the best?
Axie Infinity, zooooooom to the moon mythical crit of the beast.

II
The empty jar molded with care and love.
The empty jar travelling being cared and loved.
The empty promising jar made known by brains and moneyjar.
The now not empty: over flowing jar, flooding nations with hope, love and more LOVE.

III
Only the best will be chosen among the rest.
On the best and created for the finest.
Spammers taking us down you must not rest.
For the devs erased SLEEP, just win the race.

IV
The future is far at hand,
but the silhouette is at sight.
For the future is us altogether who travel and win this fight.
For to travel alone is faster.
But to travel as one is farther.

V
This is the creation of love.
Dominations of love.
There is no small love.
But simply a mooning smooth potion of love.

VI
Good morning Axie world.
The sun has just shined for you and all.
The morning is too early to worry.
Never take this in a hurry.
For at the end Axie is winning, HURRAY!

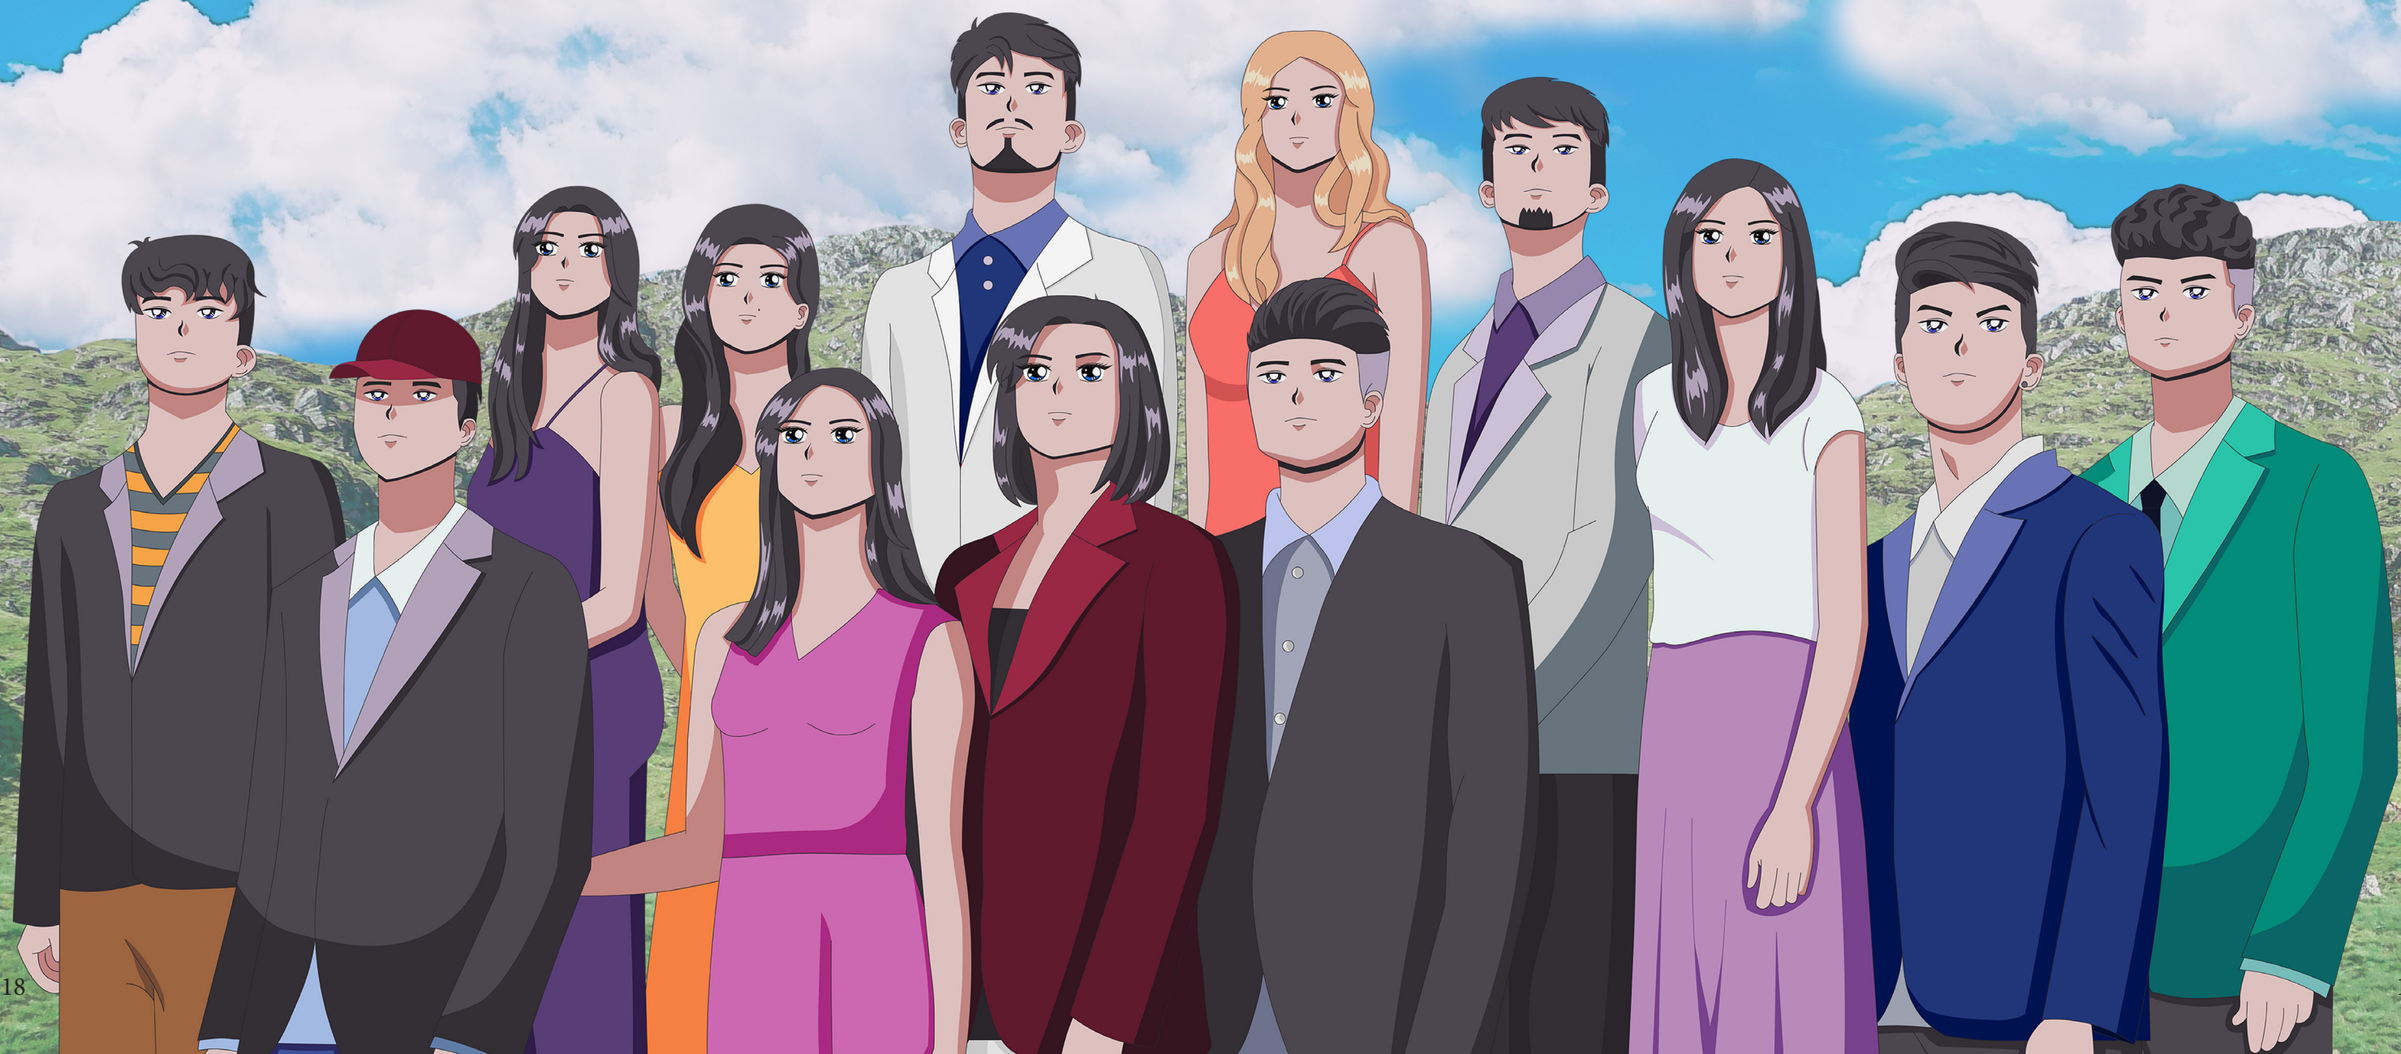

Meet the Loot Squad Managers!

When you get onboarded as a scholar within Loot Squad, they will hold your hand towards becoming the impossible.
From creating your own ronin wallet to dominating the Axie Infinity arena, the Loot Squad managers are responsible in teaching you everything you need to be a succesful Axie scholar.
Part-time teachers, part-time brothers or sisters, part-time disciplinarians and always full-time available to help you.

Started as scholars themselves, they embody the heights you can reach through the Loot Squad. Let's hear what makes LSG special and what we can expect in the future from the people handling the majority of LSG's population, the managers.

In this series of interviews, LSG's managers answer the following questions:
Q1: What makes Loot Squad unique?
Q2: What are your thoughts on where LSG sits currently, and where do you think its future lies?
Q3: What is the best accomplishment of Loot Squad you're most proud of?
Q4: What is the biggest challenge you've faced and how did you overcome it?
Q5: What advice do you have for aspiring LSG scholars?

Monsour

Q1: What makes us unique is our community. We strive to be better every single day with the help of each other. The founders of the guild are also dedicated to helping those who want to play the game.

Q2: Believe it or not, with 300+ scholars, we are just in our beta phase. There's more to come! We're going to be competitive and provide more scholarships. And by more, I mean MORE scholarships!

Q3: The collaboration with YGG which helped the LSG reach more people and helped us onboard scholars faster than expected.

Q4: To be honest, as I'm typing this, I am anxious on what move to do next. The biggest challenge that I overcame was the server issue mid-July. How did I overcome it? Simple - I believed in Axie Infinity. I believed in the devs, the community, the moderators, the founders and those who are striving and showing their full support during those trying times.

Q5: Waiting to be onboarded is boring but if you're not doing anything during that wait time, you'll end up a loser. Try to understand the game. How it works, the mechanics, how to earn, why we earn and etc. Stop saying that you are waiting for months and months for a scholarship. Always remember that this is a play-to-earn game, not just a financial giveaway/ gift. Hard work with patience will always pay off.

Karen

Q1: What makes the Loot Squad unique is that it's more than just a scholarship guild, we're building a family. We care for each other. We help and uplift each other with no doubt and regret. Despite the differences, we unite as one. We may not have seen each other yet, but we still became a support system to one another. We help each other grow and we assure that no one would be left behind here in our Loot Squad family.

Q2: Proud and happy because in a short span of time, LSG family became bigger and bigger. Who would've thought that LSG would boom? As we all know, there are many scholarship programs also out there. About the future, I know it will be more successful. I believe in Bryce and the LootsquadGG family.

Q3: There's a lot of things I should be proud of in LootSquad. One of which is being partnered with YGG. Loot Squad has many believers and those believers are gradually fulfilling their dreams in life now. Because of LSG, they can finally help their loved ones and finance their hobbies. That's the LSG accomplishment I'm most proud of, they changed the lives of the people who truly believed in them. Loot Squad won the hearts of many people.

Q4: None.

Q5: My advice for aspiring LSG scholars is to be good at all times. Everyone has their own timeline. While waiting for your turn, learn to applaud other's achievements. Be patient because Loot Squad is worth waiting for. When your time comes, keep your feet on the ground. Aspire to inspire!

Emma

Q1: Loot Squad is unique because of the great & helpful community built from the ground up. The wonderful souls behind LSG have done such great work to help people have the chance to be scholars! LSG also has a great team of passionate managers from the Philippines that have done so many great things and amazing initiatives for Loot Squad!

Q2: Lootsquad's main voice, Brycent, has done a great job as Loot Squad's content creator. He keeps on spreading good things about Axie! He's been doing such a great job with his tutorial videos as well. I believe LSG has a bright future ahead with so many things possible like providing scholarships worldwide and giving more rewards for scholars.

Q3: The LSG community built through social media and the amount of scholars onboarded in such a short time!

Q4: I think it was when I first started late April this year. I had no idea what Axies I was buying. I dropped to 700 MMR so fast and stayed there for about a month. I felt so alone and terrible about it. I contacted a top player and took coaching sessions to improve my play. He also helped me choose better Axies. I watched a lot of streams and learned about their gameplay. It helped me a lot and made plenty of good friends in the Axie community.
I've also felt a little down a few months ago because I felt like I couldn't afford to help others get scholarships. I bought Axies one at a time and now have enough to start my own small scholarship program.

Q5: Believe in your capabilities and talents. Learn everything you can about Axie Infinity before you get onboarded as a scholar. Watch Brycent's streams because it's not just watch to earn, you will also learn about the gameplay. Don't be afraid to communicate with other Axie trainers & don't be shy to ask about Axie Infinity, you might learn a lot too!

Wethands

Q1: LootSquad is a guild which doesn't stop giving opportunities. After being a scholar, you can become a scholar manager then a scholar director. If the leaders see potential in you, they will reward you generously.

Q2: The Loot Squad is still young. With our hard working leaders, I can say it will be one of the biggest guilds not just in Lunacia but in other P2E games too.

Q3: I feel very happy whenever someone graduates from the program. It means that the LootSquad has done its job. Some of us graduates also started extending our hands to help people by giving out scholarships.

Q4: I was unemployed starting October 2020 due to the pandemic and it came to a point that I was feeling hopeless until I learned about Axie Infinity. It helped me get back on track. All thanks to Real Deal Guild (My first guild) and ofcourse Bryce and the LootSquad for giving me the opportunity and trusting me. I wouldn't be here if it weren't for them.

Q5: Learn the game so that when the time comes, you won't be clueless. This way, you can start giving back to your managers by performing well and lighten their workload by not spoon-feeding you.

Joanna

Q1: The community itself is unique and every member of the team is unique in their own way. You can see lots of good personalities and talents in the squad. Moreover, the bond between each member is incredible that you would feel at home, and not in an organization.

Q2: I am proud of where Loot Squad is right now. It still feels like yesterday when I became a part of it and I think I've witnessed most of its achievements. In a short period of time, we achieved a lot and I know we will achieve more because we have great leaders. I am uncertain where the future will be, but I am sure that Loot Squad will be known globally and will soon host huge events while giving a lot of opportunities to people.

Q3: There are many accomplishments that the Loot Squad has achieved, but I think the best for me is its partnership with Yield Guild Games. As we all know, YGG is also a play-to-earn gaming guild and it is huge with thousands of scholars even before Loot Squad started. It makes me proud because LSG is just starting and yet YGG has already seen potential in us. That's the best for me.

Q4: It is so hard for me to think of the biggest challenge that I have ever faced in my entire life. I can say that everyday seems like a big challenge for me. Especially in times where you are mentally unstable. You'll never know when your anxiety will trigger and you just can't stop fighting with your own thoughts, sometimes it comes on the days you least expect it to. But you have no choice but to keep going, it's hard but you have to. Having a strong support system and surrounding myself with genuine people, I think that's how I overcame it.

Q5: Be patient. I know they already heard it a lot, but that's the key to be part of the squad. I myself also struggled in finding an Axie scholarship but here I am now, one of the Loot Squad scholar managers. You have to be patient, respectful, grateful, and always engage in the community. If you're already doing that, you're doing it right. Your hard work will pay off and lots of opportunities are waiting for you here.

Jace

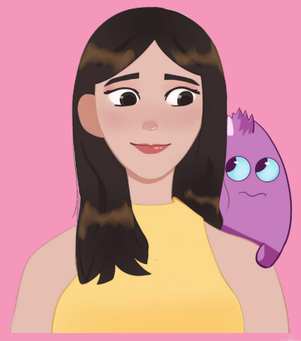

Q1: The community. The LSG family showing their love and support to each other as well as everyone who contributes to the whole Axie community.

Q2: I am proud! The LSG family expanded at such a fast pace in just a few months. I am sure that we will be able to maintain a healthy community for a better and brighter future.

Q3: Our competitive scholars! It's great seeing a majority of our scholars climbing up the leaderboards.

Q4: Distributing scholars' payouts was a gruesome task before. It was a challenge in our early months. I'm glad our team came up with Auraya Bot, it definitely made the pay-out process quick and seamless.

Q5: Respect and patience are virtues that need emphasis if you want to be a part of us. LSG is not only a guild, we are a family.

Lemon

Q1: Loot Squad is unique through its goal of enlarging the community to help more people across the world in becoming the impossible. We are surrounded by amazing people such as the leaders, scholar directors, scholar managers, loot guard, moderators, scholars and aspiring scholars. I have to mention all of them as all of us contributed to why the squad is amazing. Everyone has a unique talent to contribute to the community. More people are willing to help others, even aspiring scholars help other aspiring scholars. LSG always shows good intentions and serves as a role model.

Q2: Even though our squad has just started, we have provided hundreds of scholarships with more to come as our goal is to reach 1000 scholars by December. I think LSG has a bright future as we have awesome leaders who are working hard for the LSG to achieve more than we could ever imagine. As we can see, there are plans like the loot magazine, the legal stuff to onboard more aspiring scholars, the $LOOT token and the upcoming events by December. We are just getting started and we're on our way to accomplish more.

Q3: I am proud that LSG has a family that is supportive of each other. We are more than a scholarship program; we are a family that aims to share our blessings with the community. In our squad, we make sure that no one is left behind and we love each other. I am proud of it because it provides a strong bond between each member of the family and through these, we are unbreakable.

Q4: The biggest challenge I've faced as a scholar manager is teaching new scholars that do not know how to play Axie Infinity. I'm not that good at instructing people. However, I've overcome it by sharing my experiences in game, assisting them to my full extent on how to utilize their team composition, and supporting them on their potential.

Q5: For aspiring LSG scholars, I recommend engaging in our amazing community while waiting for a scholarship. Also, please bear with us for now as after the legal stuff, we will come back stronger. I hope you can see that we're just getting started and being part of this family is an honor. As I've said earlier, we are more than just a scholarship program. We will carry this squad name throughout the world. We're all gonna make it!

Arwin

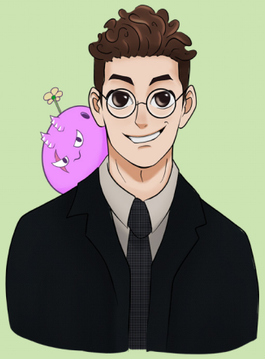

Q1: We are one family in building a wonderful community; a leading organization in Axie Infinity.

Q2: The future is unpredictable. We are building an empire and we are not there yet, this is just the beginning.

Q3: I am really proud of the community we've built and how our leaders take care of all the scholars.

Q4: I've encountered a lot of struggles in my life. I think I have yet to face my greatest one.

Q5: Keep grinding those watch hours and learning about Axie Infinity. Show your dedication in grabbing that scholarship.

Jekkie

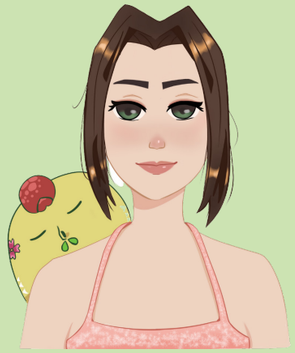

Q1: Loot Squad is unique in the sense that people here are like family. Never have I ever seen such a community wherein everyone just claps for each other's success. No jealousy, no bad blood between members, and most of all, Bryce himself doesn't treat us as workers, respecting our dreams and encouraging us to become our better selves. Binary Assets is very approachable whether it be Arena knowledge or what the scene was like before you went in. He is also always hyped up with our achievements. Flow Bot, well, he is not a bot, probably the most elusive co-founder of LSG. The guy is always creating new programs that'll help the scholars and managers alike in managing their Axies and SLPs

Q2: LSG is definitely in its infancy stage. The members are developing art, streaming content, high level arena gameplays, donation drives and a whole lot more. Our goal is to make everyone's life more comfortable than what they currently have. We're building a community that'll one day reach greater heights.

Q3: I personally think that the biggest accomplishment of Loot Squad is introducing a lot of people into cryptocurrency. Children, teenagers, parents, and grandparents alike are starting to know all about crypto at their own pace. People are starting to know that there are other things aside from fiat currency.

Q4: The biggest challenge I faced was not knowing what I could give back to the community. I felt myself being slowly left out by my peers and they're reaching new heights in terms of art, connections, streaming, and being in tightly knit groups. Nevertheless, I tried what I could and found my place in studying the arena. Nowadays, some members of the community ask me on how to be a better player, what's a better composition with their available Axies, how to overcome certain compositions and the like. I dream of myself being a top player one day.

Q5: My advice to aspiring LSG scholars is to be patient. Patience in being onboarded. Be content with the team you will receive and always be thankful. Trust me, being on Loot Squad is definitely worth your wait.

Kath

Q1: LSG is unique because of the bond within the members. I've been in the Axie Infinity community for five months and I have seen guilds left and right; however, LSG is the most genuine one I've found. Our support system is incomparable because we have such great leaders.

Q2: I'll compare LSG to a rocket ship that is about to take off. Only a few months in and we were able to reach this point. I can't imagine where we will be in the next few years. Beyond the moon, I guess.

Q3: One of the greatest accomplishments of LSG that makes everyone excited is no other than Auraya Bot. Everyone benefits from the automatic SLP pay-out system.

Q4: When I got promoted as scholar manager, one of the things I got scared of was not being able to meet my scholar's expectations. I often questioned myself if I could do this but you can never go wrong when your intentions are pure. I may not be the best LSG player/manager but I whole-heartedly do my best for my scholars.

Q5: YGMI one-hundred percent!

Sushi

Q1: Unique means having a characteristic like no other. I believe we are distinct simply because we're a diamond in the rough, currently being forged to bring out our fullest potential. Our culture cultivates and encourages great minds and perseverance. Our vision for the future puts our best interest in helping each other. Our mission is to empower our members for them to attain financial freedom by creating generational wealth.

Q2: LSG is still a startup if you will look at its age from the day it was founded. We have advanced quite a lot considering that we are a fairly new organization. I can see LSG having multiple subsidiary companies in the future, all involved in different sides and corners of the Metaverse, not just in Axie Infinity. Thinking outside the box, we can venture in other blockchain based games and produce tons of scholars in them. In a broader perspective, other than gaming, we can also be in publishing, art, branding, products,and infinite possibilities. This is just the beginning.

Q3: For me LSG's all-time greatest achievement are our leaders who started and preserved a culture that encourages everyone to be limitless, a culture that is kind and loving, a culture that shares each others' triumphs and defeats and a culture that takes pride in everybody winning.

Q4: I'm well into my 20s and I have faced so many challenges including life and death situations. Keeping a positive mindset and relying on your peers and loved ones would be your greatest aid. Believing and keeping the faith, pray for guidance and take charge of your own destiny. Think of the people who share both your success and failures. Gather all your whys and fortify your reason to rise above every challenge you face.

Q5: Never stop adding value to the community. Don't stress yourself out with stuff that you can't control, focus on building and cultivating your skills. Your time will come soon, if you persevere and act respectfully.

Nodelay

Q1: LSG is unique because of its people. Aside from the healthy and helpful community, many opportunities are available for career and personal growth.

Q2: LSG is currently preparing to launch programs that will lead the squad to our main goal, to help people in need. I can see that LSG will have different sites across the globe in the future, assisting and providing opportunities for everyone in the community.

Q3: Being able to help and change the lives of the people we onboard will always be the biggest accomplishment we make.

Q4: When my grandfather got hospitalized, I witnessed how our family struggled financially. I was only 16 years old at that time and didn't have the capacity to help them. I prayed and thanked God we were able to get help from our local government to pay for the hospital bills.

Q5: Everyone deserves a scholarship as long as they have good intentions. Be patient, wait for the right time and learn how to respect everyone.

Mary

Q1: Loot Squad is not just any scholarship program, Loot Squad is home for many. The family that we are currently building has given a lot of people hope, purpose, and a chance to change their lives for the better. I think what makes this guild distinctive is, first, the fact that everyone is welcome here -- No race, no color, no exemptions. Second are the growth opportunities that are open for scholars. Our founders' wish for everyone is to earn and flourish vigorously at the same time. The scholarship opportunity that the Loot Squad has given to scholars will multiply when they save up money from their earnings and are able to provide scholarships for others.

Q2: From a business perspective, I see Loot Squad at the "Launch" Phase. Loot Squad is currently on a cycle of creating more scholarships by investing their profit share in AXS and breeding, thus procuring negative cash flow in relation to capitalization of initial start up costs. But this doesn't mean anything bad. It is normal for a corporation to incur losses at the start. As the demand for scholarship continues to grow, more funding is required for the Loot Squad and that is what our founders are currently working on. To sum it up, we are still early. The Loot Squad isn't near its maturity yet. I believe our founders have a lot of projects and fresh ideas in their minds, so I suggest you better buckle up your seats because there are definitely more to come!

Q3: The success of its scholars are Loot Squad's achievements. The fact that Loot Squad thrives to make more projects in the future, is an example of the attempt to unleash everyone's talent and potential. The recent partnership with YGG and G Fuel, the construction of LOOT ecosystem, the birth of Auraya bot command and Loot Magazine, and even the Pre-onboarding workshop that Loot Squad is conducting, There is so much that the Loot Squad can offer. The unceasing growth of this community is possible with its people working hard night and day, and I can say they are the ones I am most proud of.

Q4: I became a mom as early as 19. The biggest challenge I faced is how would I live up with this big responsibility in my hands. One week after I gave birth, I had to enroll in my last two semesters to finish college and graduate. It was exhausting and my mind was bombarded with uncertainties. But I thought, not being able to give my child a good life was much scarier. That is the point where I lowered my pride and asked for my parent's help. They've supported me financially in raising my child when I was in school, they've nursed her whenever I had to stay up late and study and that is why they are the ones I am most grateful for.

Q5: To all the applicants who wish to be a Loot Squad scholar, it is okay to say "Good Day, manager", but please refrain from sending your resumes. Everything is digitally available now so I suggest you do your own research, acquaint yourselves with the people behind Loot Squad, and think of ways where you can help and contribute to the betterment of the community. When you invest your time and energy properly, it will definitely yield positive results.

Big Crit Britt

"When BA told me he wanted to give scholarships another shot, I was excited, a tad nervous, and had NO idea of the impact it would have this time around.

Bryce's social media platforms along with the Loot Squad Discord has brought us into one family. The directors, managers, and scholars all foster that same sense of pride, it is so apparent when you scroll through twitter. I just want to say THANK YOU to everyone for growing this movement. Loot Squad is going to do big, beautiful things and we are so happy to have your support on this journey!"

Reine

Q1: What makes Loot Squad unique is the way they treat scholars. Everyone is treated as a family and everyone has each other's backs. The guild gives everyone the opportunity to grow and achieve their goals.

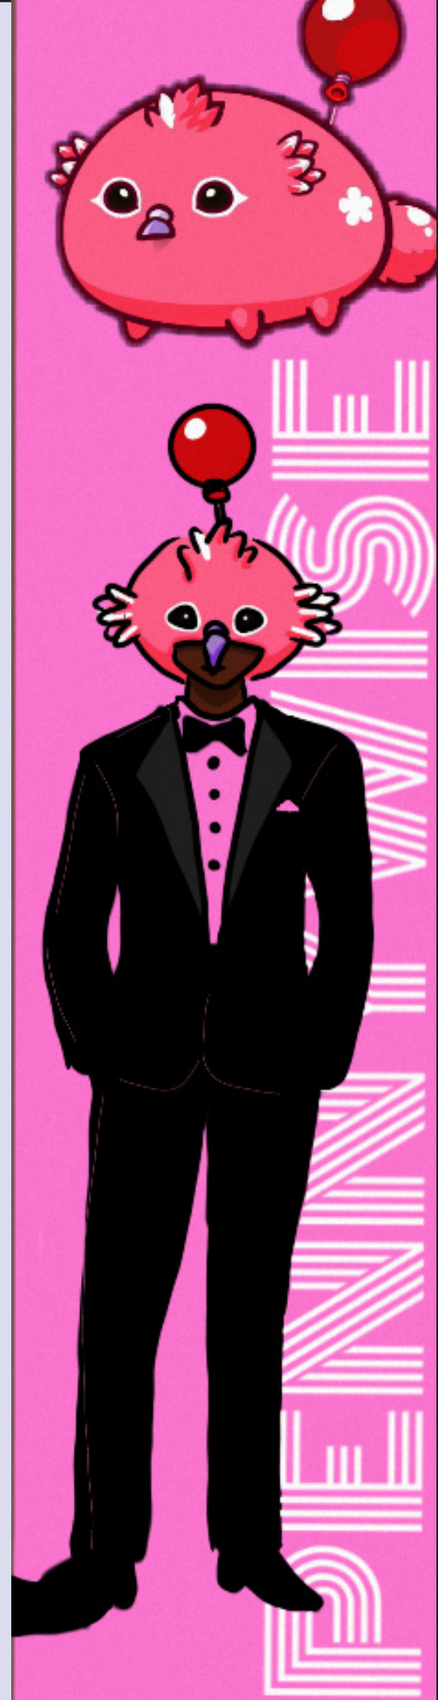

Q2: I think LSG is on the right track, and will keep on growing and taking on challenges it faces. I believe we will become one of the top guilds in the future. We will ba able to offer greater opportunities to people and continue to change their lives.

Q3: The accomplishment that I'm most proud of is when we produce more roles that scholars can take in the community, like being illustrators/editors on Loot Mag or being able to become content creators.

Q4: The biggest challenge that I faced so far is the pressure to stay on the Top 20 scholars list. It really frustrates me when I'm on a lose streak, however, I want to make my manager proud so I really give out my best.

Because of my friends here on Loot Squad and by the guidance of Director WH, I learned to just enjoy the moment. I also realized that I can make them proud by just being me and doing the best that I can.

Q5: My advice is to never stop believing and just be yourself and do what you think is right and always be open to help others. We can all make it, just believe and start building.

You might be wondering, why am I here?

Call me Vanilla, a girl next door who happened to bump into this crazy but wonderful metaverse (so good to be stuck here, I'm learning so much). As I was going through my daily routine of being an independent and working woman, I came across a small and budding community called Loot Squad. Honestly, I was super busy and preoccupied that I wasn't able to give much attention to them. Then came the opportunity to be an Axie scholar with Loot Squad, thanks to my brother who redeemed enough points for me (he's already a scholar from another great guild).

Before the metaverse and LSG, I left one of the biggest companies in the world right before the pandemic happened. It was devastating, if I may say. But true enough, if we see things in a bigger picture and use it to pull strength, the results would be greater. So don't you worry. Giving up is not the answer. Rest if you must, but do not quit.

Let me tell you, before all the hype and buildup of Axie Infinity during these trying times, I was already seeing things about it and even those related to it. I wasn't paying attention back then. Can you believe that? Crazy. I felt "damn, am I too late now?", but no. I was just in time for something big. Something that bursts greatness.

Loot Squad does not only provide Axie Infinity scholarships. The founders aren't just leaders, they are our role models. They empower their people. Everyone here is amazing and you'll be surprised that there's more to these people behind every successful scholar, behind every Axie team.

We're not here just to make money by playing. We are here to uplift each and every person, create strong bonds and be the change. Loot Squad offers more than what you can imagine. I've been seeing a lot of improvement in people's lives. You may ask yourself, is it worth the time and effort?

Yes. It is definitely worth it. I am a witness myself and hearing these stories of fun-filled success and life changing moments because of LSG makes me euphoric. I'm proud to say that I am a small part of it. These people do not only bring that change in their lives and make use of it. They pay it forward. We are all paying it forward.

I want to share with you that I am happy and content. The people in my life have never been this diverse and joining Loot Squad is what I'm thankful for. I met people of different passion, perspective and experiences. They play a big part in my life as I'm getting ready to bloom into the person I'm meant to be: a future leader.

I continuously engage and contribute to this entire community with beautiful people and purpose. It makes my heart happy and full. Loot Squad really opened a lot of doors and made me realize I can be more. Who would have thought, this girl is making an impact even in the smallest of things.

Here I am, a Loot Squad scholar. One of Manager Camille's lemon seeds. A friend and sister to many. LSG scholar or not, everyone is welcome to join us. We're not only your friends but your extended family outside the online world.

I will always be grateful to Bryce, Binary Assets, Flowbot44 and CartKid08 for this amazing opportunity. Thank you to everyone who keeps on believing in me. I wouldn't be growing so much if I didn't join Loot Squad.

Still wondering? See you around.

The night I spread the word on Axie Infinity

By Pleun - THE LAW

I have a brief solitary moment and I'm taking a sip of my 3rd cold and refreshing "Stella Artois" beer. The condensation on the bottle indicates a balmy summer evening halfway June. The party which I am attending is of a befriended couple who are celebrating their engagement. While I'm drinking my beer I'm overlooking the crowd and I can't help but wonder if @Kentasi2 is also having a beer right now? It is in that very moment that I realize that my mind tends to wander off quite a lot lately to Axie Infinity related subjects. Halfway through this train of thought my eyes suddenly meet with the bride to be. She comes up to me and says: "Hey, how are those crypto trades working out for you?" She is one of a very select group of close friends who actually know I've invested in crypto because she got into crypto almost at exactly the same time as I did. "All in all it's not that bad", I tell her, "I'm up about 40% but it should have been way more in this bullish market." She nods her head and say: "Yeah, I feel you, you win some you lose some. I still feel like I need to learn a lot on the subject and I consider my losses as paying tuition." She smiles and says: "But anyhow I was on my way to the bathroom so… you'll have to excuse me… talk to you later, ok?" And she wanders off to the bathroom.

The rest of the evening passes in the blink of an eye, mainly because it's the first gathering of our group of friends in over a year and a half due to Covid-19, and secondly because the alcohol consumption that evening will go down in history books as "the evening before the second Volstead Act". We all drank as if the big prohibition would start the day after. Eventually, my wife and I are leaving the party, but before we go we find ourselves in front of the guest book, holding a pen and still needing to write down our best marriage advise we can give the young couple. Considering the high level of alcohol running through my veins it might not come as a surprise to you that I had no recollection of what I had written down the day after.

Fast forward to last weekend when the wedding went down in a castle just minutes out of the world-renowned medieval city center of Bruges. My wife and I, both dressed up for the occasion are lined up behind some other guests to enter the evocative location to greet the newlyweds and congratulate them on their wedding day. We gently move down the line and end up in front of the couple. Before I can even start congratulating them the bride grabs my arm, leans in and whispers in my ear: "That tip you wrote down in our guestbook the other night, that was pure gold!" I'm baffled by her one sentence, my brain is making connections at full speed and suddenly it hits me, I remember what I had written down in the guestbook. It was a short and powerful message that read: "Crypto tip: $AXS & $SLP". I didn't even sign it with my name because I was that far down the rabbit hole at the time and yet she knew that I had written it down. Considering she bought $AXS in June at approximately $5.00 and still hodling it in her wallet at around $70.00 you can see why it was pure gold.

My wife bumps into me because she saw I was just standing there daydreaming and not saying a word. I snap out of it and move along to the end of the line greeting and congratulating the parents of the newlyweds. A few feet away from the back of the line a waiter is already offering us a "coupe de champagne". My wife kindly accepts the offer, whereas I kindly refuse and quickly ask him for a cold and refreshing "Stella Artois" beer. As I am waiting for the waiter to bring me back my beer I can't help but wonder if @Kentasi2 is also having a beer right now. Oh how my mind wonders off again to the realm of crypto and Lunacia. The waiter hands me a condensed bottle of "Stella Artoir". I take a sip and… well we all knew where this night was headed to from the start didn't we?

KENTASI, LIVING THE AXIE LIFE

How'd you find out about NFTs?

I learned about NFTs while searching about crypto one day. After reading a forum, I think it was on reddit, I saw a comment about Axie Infinity. I searched about the game on Youtube and found a video by Cagyjan.

So I started playing Axie Infinity and then I ran out of energy. I didn't have anything else to do. I was scrolling through twitter and I saw a post about NFT, so I started searching about it.

Who or what inspires your art?

To me, art is a new language to transfer thought and emotion. Therefore, there is no good or bad art, what inspires me is the story behind each owner.

What's your long-term vision for your work?

Earn enough money to afford to buy beer whenever I want.

If you can give a piece of advice to individuals who want to venture into NFT art, what is it?

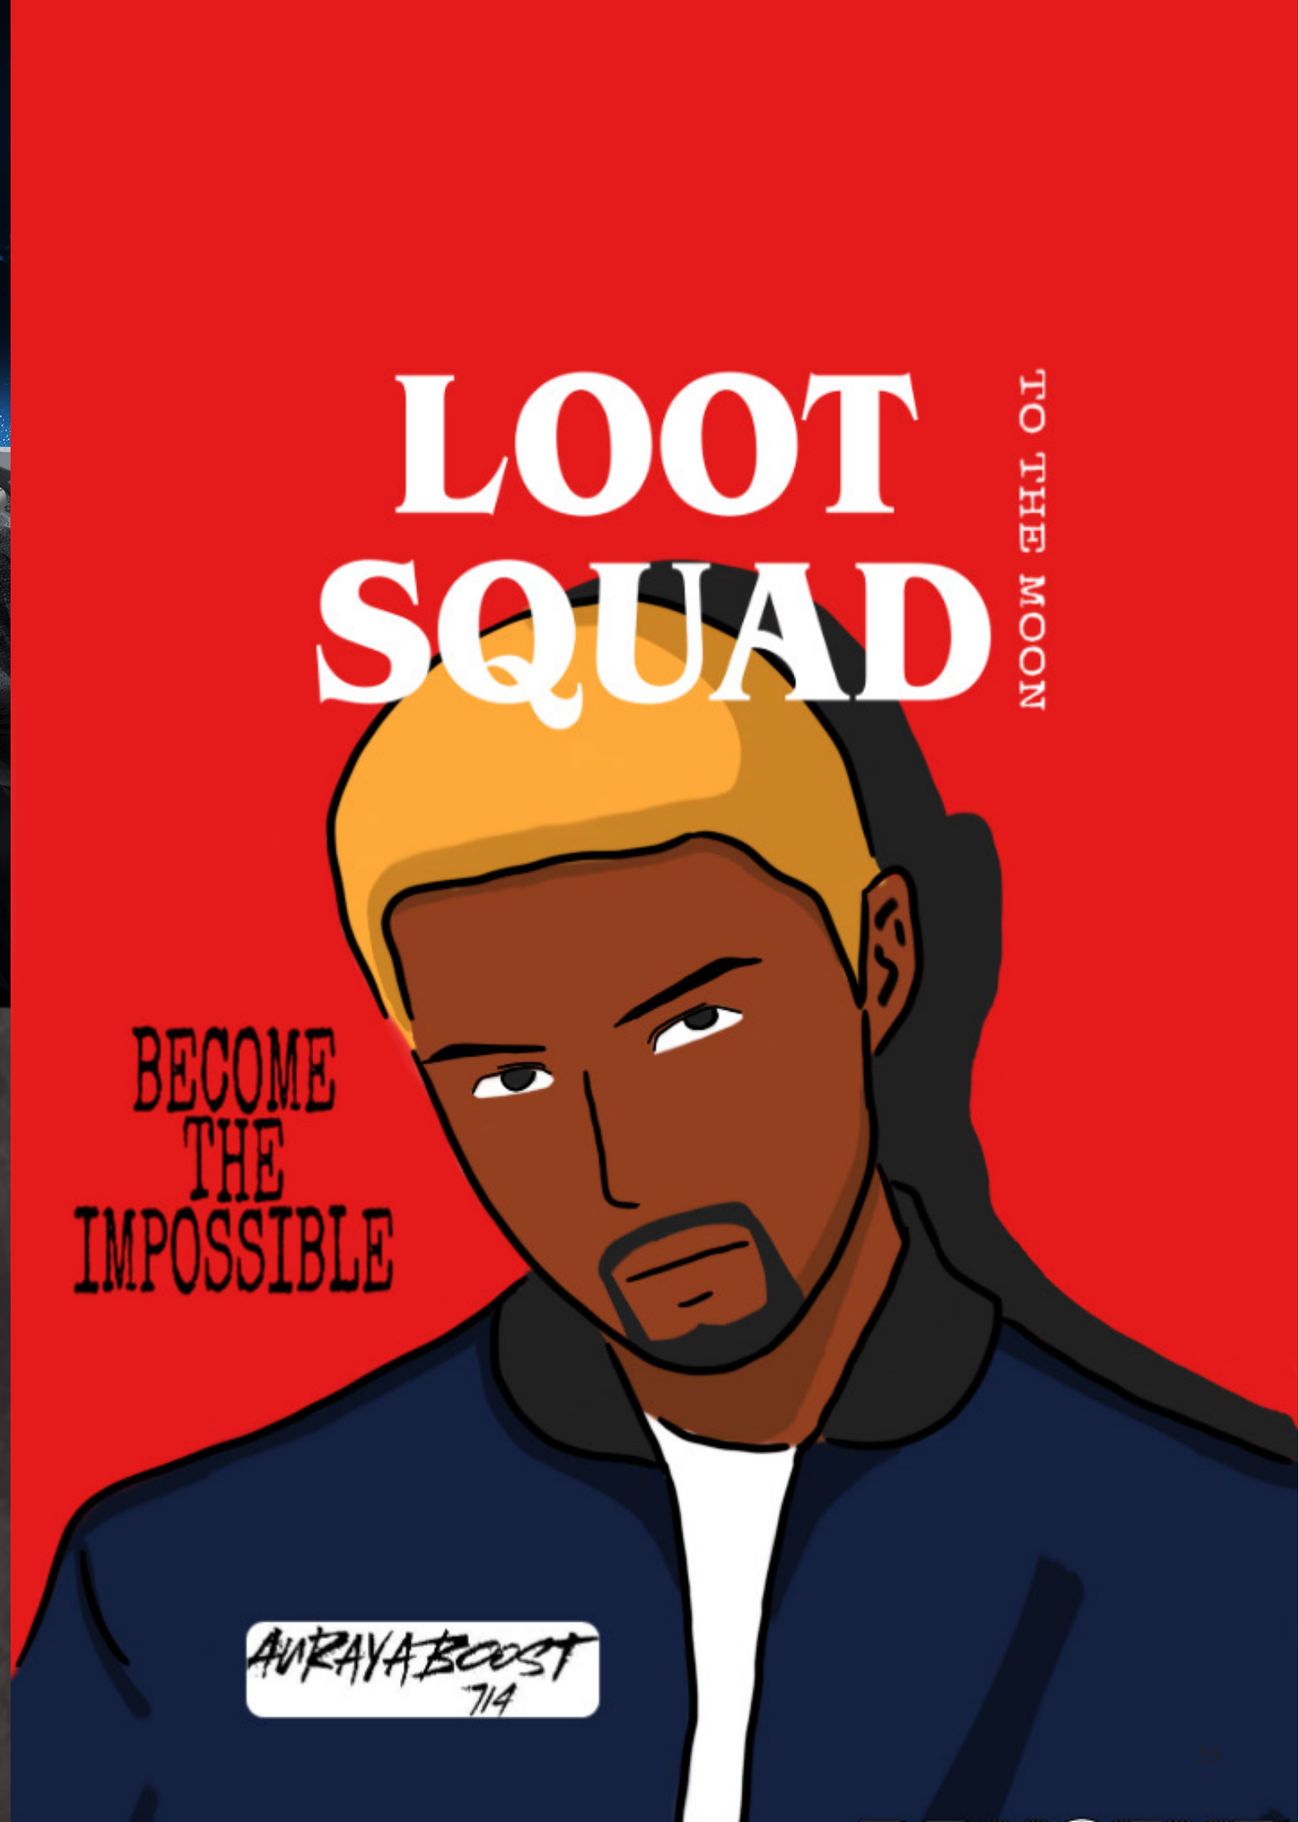

Before you go down this road, ask yourself if you can commit to it and work hard daily even without a sale for at least 10 years. If yes, go for it.

What can you say about where Loot Squad is right now? Any predictions for its future?

If anyone wants to know about Loot Squad, you don't even have to ask the founders. Just talk with any member and you will realize that Loot Squad represents a big family where people come to share, talk, and support each other.

In the future, I think Loot Squad will become a famous brand not just in Axie Infinity but also in many other sectors. Wherever Loot Squad ends up in, it will always stay true to its core values.

Online Gaming:
Meeting the Status Quo

When shelter-in-place protocols came crashing different industries down, millions of people throughout the globe altered themselves into technology-led redirections in keeping contact with family and friends through series of Zoom meetings, Netflix film viewings, and online video gaming.

Gaming – online gaming, given its transformational impact on people's pastime, has skyrocketed in the midst of pandemic. In times of this crisis, the constant upsurge of online gaming has manifested a new outlet for the majority in letting themselves be reconnected in the current situation of isolation. With its extensive availability on the market and massive popularity, online video games constituted a great proportion being a source of entertainment, thus, a venue for enduring friendships creating a sense of belonging with individuals in the internet platform. Like the famous space-themed game "Among Us" or the sand-box-based video game "Minecraft", with a single tap on the play button, gamers follow the rules or do quests and missions, then as the game's finally over, they have again the chance to finally accomplish the intended task of the game and later claim in-game rewards, in short, playing for enjoyment and self-satisfaction. While the utmost point of playing online games is for people to have fun, components consisting these simulated world of games has become evaluative.

As a global response to this continuous pandemic, initiatives in relation to online gaming have given itself emphasis as an aid to ease hardships as a result of lock downs. Innovations have been implemented, producing a new class of games to surface in which gaming became an investment opportunity – and realistically a way to make money for a living. The trend "play-to-earn" on several Blockchain systems have been revolving around the world – Axie Infinity. Its popularity exploded during the pandemic has known to contribute to the economic ecosystems.

Axie Infinity is where cryptocurrency meets gaming. It is a (Non-fungible Tokens) NFT-based online video game created by Vietnamese developer Sky Mavis. The game's mission is to bring blockchain technology to the people, and at the same time, a play-to-earn crypto built on the Ethereum (ETH) network. The game revolves around earning Axie Infinity Shard token (AXS) and the other in-game token, Smooth Love Potion (SLP) that can be sold for real money. This can be gained through cute furry creatures called Axies, in which players breed, acquire, train, use to complete challenges, and do battle with other players online. Axies are unique, cute digital pets – and are also non-fungible tokens (NFT) which can be bought or sold at certain marketplaces.

The game's popularity stems from its earning possibilities, especially in most developing countries. Axie Infinity's impressive revenue streams are fueled by its high participation all throughout the globe. With continuous modernization of today's generation, it gradually improves people's way of life, and in the online platforms, pertaining to sustained communities. As a matter of fact, the ability to make financial gains enables play-to-earn games to have its relevant role not only for gamers or players but also for those who are striving for a maintainable, successful life during this new normal; meeting the status quo, indeed.

Investing For Every One

Get to know more about Beez, Amazon's best-selling author of the Financial Starter Kit!

Can you tell us a bit about yourself and how you started the Financial Starter Kit?

After studying computer science in college for four years, I got a job as a software engineer. Soon after, I fell into the typical trap that America sets up for us. I ended up buying a new construction townhouse; I also ended up buying a brand-new car instead of getting my old one fixed when it had broken down. And then, I had to figure out how I was going to get myself out of debt so I ended up going overseas where I became a contractor. I have been doing this job for five years now and that's really what helped me get out of debt. It also helped me figure out what I can do to help others to not fall into the same traps I fell into. That's really how I started the Financial Starter Kit.

What are the biggest misconceptions that you see from people when it comes to investing?

The biggest misconception that I see is that you need a lot of money to start investing. Some people will tell you that you need a minimum of $10,000 to start investing and I think that's one of the things that is not true at all.

I think when it comes to investing, you should just start with whatever amount of money that you have or an amount that you can stick to. Whatever that amount may be and no matter how little you think it is, when you invest long term, that money ends up compounding over time. There is no minimum especially now that we have cryptocurrencies where you can just buy a fraction of a coin; the same thing is applicable to stocks now.

What is your advice to anyone who's about to invest in crypto and NFTs?

Learn the basics first. Explore what's going on with crypto, understand the basic concepts and technology behind some of these coins. Once you start getting the fundamental knowledge, just consistently invest and start getting in with the communities.

Make sure that you're active and up to date with the cryptocurrencies you're interested in because it is different from traditional stocks – it's easy to get lost. When it comes to NFTs, it can be complicated so I would also say the same thing. Take your time to understand what you're putting your money into by doing some research and being consistent. Don't stop learning and figuring out stuff because there's always something new to learn. That's what I love most about crypto.

For aspiring writers, what is the one piece of advice you would give to them?

Try not to get so caught up on how will you finish what you're writing. If you're trying to write a book, don't get caught up on "how am I going to write a hundred pages, 200 pages". Make an outline and figure out what is the key takeaway that you want your reader to get from your book and then just start writing. Don't be too tough on yourself and just allow yourself to make mistakes when you're writing. The next thing you know, you'll look up and whatever it is that you're writing will be done.

Do you have any new projects that you would like to share?

The biggest project that I'm working on is my success, life, society, community; that's what I'm most excited about. I'm just building a community of people who are all trying to learn how to invest, get better careers and figure out how to retire early. That's the biggest project that I'm working on.

Moreover, I recently broke down my "Investing For Everyone" course into smaller portions. If somebody is only interested in learning about crypto, they can learn just about crypto. If somebody is only interested in learning about stocks, they can focus only on stocks. I think that's great because it's at a lower price point and you can learn exactly what you want to learn about instead of having to buy the full course, which has over a hundred lessons.

I'm also going to open a Youtube channel soon!

AXIE TOOLS

by bab00n_

Axie infinity is not a simple world to dive into. It will be a continuous learning experience, picking your first Axies, learning the cards, climbing the leaderboards, checking breed compatibility, and so on. Luckily, the community around Axie Infinity is helpful and collaborative. Tools are abundant everywhere that can assist you in everything you'll need. We've got tools for checking which Axies to buy, what to expect when you breed them, and even energy counters to help you climb the ranks.

It doesn't matter if you're still wet in the ears or if you've seen the top of the leaderboards these past seasons, these tools will come in handy for everyone. Noobs and pros alike.

Cards Explorer
axieworld.com/en/tools/cards-explorer

This is the perfect place to start learning for beginners. You probably already know what your Axie's cards do, but what about all those cards you see in arena? Always get into a fight prepared by knowing beforehand each card and their effects.

Cards Explorer by AxieWorld lets you see and sort through all the cards currently available in the game. It has filter options like class, cost, part type, and more to find cards easier. Spend time here and arena opponents won't catch you unprepared for the cards they'll throw.

Arena Leaderboards
axie.zone/leaderboard

Everyone wants to win in arena. I can't blame you if you're aiming to climb high and reap those juicy mAXS at the end of the season. You want to be better? Then learn from the best.

Arena Leaderboards lets you see the current players on the top and check their profiles. Here you can see their most used Axie team and the past games they've had. It even has a link for you to watch their replays! All you'll need to learn, be better and, someday, beat them.

Energy Counter
axieenergycalculator.com

Counting all those energy gain, steal, break can sometimes be overwhelming and entirely slip from our minds. We've all experienced expecting a 2-mana round from the enemy and then be thrown 4 cards instead. Energy counting is a big part of winning games. But with all the action going on, we're bound to miss a few.

There are a couple of energy counters that can assist us in the game, but Elkun Coding's Axie Energy Calculator is one of the most popular and comprehensive tool to use. The energy calculator has simple, standard, and advanced options along with being able to differentiate whether the enemy has used, gained or destroyed energy. It can also count your wins/losses for the day and can run straight from your pc or phone browser.

Freak's Axie Extension

Freak's Axie extension is a chrome app that let's you see the genes of the Axie you plan to buy in the marketplace. The extension lets you see the dominant and recessive genes of an Axie. This way, you can expect what parts its offspring are most likely to get. This tool is useful for people planning to breed Axies, finding the best partner for it in terms of genes can ensure that eggs will hatch into powerful and useful Axies.

Breeding Calculators

Breeding calculators show you the most likely offspring when you breed a pair of Axies. You just input the ID of the Axies you need and it will run simulations based on the genes, showing you sample Axies it might produce.

There are a lot of Breeding calculators, each with their own interface. A few are Freak's Breeding Calculator, Chill Axie's Breeding Simulator (also includes a breeding cost calculator), and Axie-Zone's Breeding Simulator.

Axie Pricing Calculator
axie.tech/axie-pricing

No idea how much the precious Axie that you just hatched will cost? Head over to Axie Tech's Pricing Calculator to get a ballpark estimate of how much you can sell it for.

The calculator will show you how unique your Axie is along with some statistics. It will also show you the current listings and the latest sold Axies similar to what you have. It will then recommend pricing options based on your preference/urgency. The final price is still up to you, and remember that this tool does not cover all factors for pricing.

Scholarship Manager Tools
axie.tech/managers

A big part of Axie Infinity is the scholarships it creates. If you ever plan to be a manager, or you're already one, keeping track of an increasing number of scholars can be messy. There are Axies, SLP, MMR, and cashout payments to remember. You might start small, but once you start juggling 10+ scholars, you're going to struggle.

Axie Tech's Scholarship Manager Tool helps take all the mess away. It handles all the SLP, MMR, and scholar data and presents it in a simple and effective interface. You'll only need to put scholar name, ronin address, and the percentage of your cut and you'll be good to go. Axie Tech has a free (10 scholar limit) and paid version you can choose from.

And you're set! You have every tool you'll ever need and a community that is ready to help when trouble arises. Take the leaderboard by storm or start the greatest guild in the community. Become the impossible!
