

A total of 8 Constitutional Delegate Synthesis workshops were held with Constitutional Delegates and Alternates under Chatham House Rules to review Constitutional Workshop and other community feedback. These workshops generated proposed changes to the draft constitution. The proposed changes were then written by the Constitutional Ratification Working Group of the Cardano Civics Committee, in consultation with various constitutional and legal scholars from around the world. These workshops prepared the Constitutional Delegates for the Constitutional Convention by providing ample time to review, debate, and propose changes to the draft constitution.
